

PYTHON BACKEND DEVELOPER

Intempus is the maker behind one of the most innovative time registration apps in the Danish market. We are a 6-year-old investor-backed company with over 10.000 paying users in Scandinavia and, with an ambitious vision of reaching twice as many users before 2020, our dedicated team of 20 works out of offices in Copenhagen, Aarhus and abroad building and selling the app our customers love.

THE JOB

Intempus is seeking backend developers to own and guide features of our Django environment.

- Intempus' Django environment is the central system in our business and controls all business logic for our customers.
- Projects within our Django environment include multiple APIs, partner integrations, customer integrations, and internal tools used by our support and sales teams.

You will be working with our team of 7 full stack developers in Copenhagen. You will participate in daily standups for our agile development process and review code of your peers to ensure highest quality and enable learning opportunities.

INTEMPUS LIFE

Intempus believes in work-life balance and has programs in place to improve quality of life. Among our benefits:

- Free in-house chef-prepared lunch
- Flexible hours
- Central location in Copenhagen (150 meter from Vesterport station)
- Pick-your-own dev machine
- Opportunity for monthly hack nights
- Regular company-wide events like paintball or game nights

ABOUT YOU

Minimum requirements

- Experience building highly structures, maintainable and readable Python
- Experience with automated tests
- Be proficient in Git version control
- Experience with the linux
- Be interested in teaching team members about your areas of expertise as well as learning from other experts about theirs

Intempus has no middle-management and believes in basing company decisions on merit. As we encourage all team members, including the newest, to contribute with new ideas and inputs to create a better experience for our users. If you like to create an impact and wish to become part of a journey of growth, Intempus is the place for you.
